

For Mothers! Wine of Cardui. Advertisement for a medicinal wine for women's health.

Prof. B. Wilson, Attorney-at-Law. Advertisement for legal services.

R. R. Wedding, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

J. B. Vickers, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

O. M. Barnett, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

E. P. Neal, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

W. H. Barnes, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

Armistead Jones, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

Glenn & Wedding, Attorneys. Advertisement for legal services.

Jas. A. Smith, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

Heavrin & Taylor, Attorneys at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

J. R. Hayes, Attorney at Law. Advertisement for legal services.

Rowe & Felix, Lawyers. Advertisement for legal services.

REVIEWED BY MR. BRYAN. RESULTS PRESAGE REPUBLICAN DEFEAT IN COMING CONTESTS.

The "Sound Money" Democrats' Organization was a Complete Failure.

Encouraging Outlook for Kentucky Democrats—Chicago Platform Indorsed in Unmistakable Terms.

THREE PERNICIOUS DOCTRINES. BY W. J. BRYAN.

LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 9.—The elections of 1897 indicate dissatisfaction with Republican policies and preface the overthrow of the Republican party.

In Ohio, the home of the President, as well as the home of Mr. Hanna, the chairman of the Republican National Committee, the Republican majority was reduced almost one-half, and the Legislature is close.

In Kentucky the Democrats carried the State by about 20,000, and secured a good working majority in the Legislature, notwithstanding the efforts put forward by the Republicans and gold Democrats.

In Iowa the Republican majority was cut down almost one-half and large Democratic gains were made in the Legislature.

In Pennsylvania and Massachusetts the Republican majorities were largely reduced.

In Virginia the Democrats made decided gains on the State ticket and in the Legislature.

In Nebraska the fusion plurality will exceed its plurality of last year, notwithstanding a considerable decrease in the total vote.

In the States above mentioned, namely, Ohio, Kentucky, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Virginia and Nebraska, the Democrats reaffirmed the positions taken in the Chicago platform, and in each of these States the Republicans discussed national issues and pointed out that Democratic gain was strengthening the Chicago platform.

Supreme Judge did not poll one-half of 1 per cent of the vote, less than one-half the votes the party polled last year.

In Iowa, ex-Governor Patterson and Bryan canvassed the State in the interest of the Gold Democrats, and yet the gold Democrat's candidate for Governor polled only about 2,000 more than the party polled last year, or a little more than 1 per cent of the vote of the State.

In Kentucky, where, perhaps, the hardest fight was made by the gold Democrats, the candidate of the Gold Democrats polled only about 8,000 votes.

In Massachusetts, so distinguished a man as ex-Congressman Everett, running for Governor on the gold ticket, polled less than one-fifth as many votes as George Fred Williams, who made an aggressive fight for the Chicago platform.

The Republicans fought their campaign this year under the most favorable circumstances. Congress was called together in extraordinary session and the Dingley bill was passed. Factories, which were closed during the period of uncertainty, as to the schedules, opened up when the law passed finally, and the rates fixed positively; merchants, who had postponed purchases for the same reason, replenished their stocks, and the metropolitan newspapers united in heralding a return of prosperity.

Everybody was anxious for prosperity to return, no matter what party brought it, many were inclined to give the Republican party further time to demonstrate the success of failure of its policies.

In spite of these advantages, the Republican party has failed to hold its own, and the seat in favor of the Chicago platform continues to grow.

The tariff bill has been in operation something like four months, and as yet has not been vindicated by experience. Notwithstanding the fact that Republican leaders and Republican papers are continually celebrating the return of prosperity, the voters do not seem to have received their share, as is evidenced by the returns.

The objections will encourage the friends of independent bimetalism to continue their campaign. By sending a commission to Europe, Mr. McKinley admitted the gold standard to be unsatisfactory.

The last Democratic platform opposed government by injunction. Events have brought this subject into still greater prominence since the election, and few Republicans will openly defend government by injunction.

The Republican programme now embraces three pernicious doctrines: 1. Foreign control of our primary money.

2. National bank control of our paper money. 3. Trust control of the taxing power. Will the people submit? No.

Engineer vs. Lawyer. A lawyer at Campbellville last week received a much needed lesson, which it is hoped will be remembered with profit, not only by him, but by other members of his profession.

GOLDEN RULE POLITICS. IN THE MOTTO OF THE NEW MAYOR OF TOLEDO.

Samuel M. Jones, a Peculiar Character—How He Conducts His Factory.

GOLDEN RULE KEPT EVERYWHERE. (Chicago Times-Herald.)

Samuel M. Jones, Mayor of Toledo, Ohio, was at the Hall House recently studying the golden rule.

He is more remarkable than his name. He has a successful factory, and the only regulation posted about the premises is a copy of the golden rule.

As one result, his employes get big wages and work only eight hours. He was nominated because he believed in the golden rule, although he was not an aspirant for office.

He is running the city of Toledo on the golden rule plan. He has a sort of an open-air people's church whose only creed is the golden rule. The preaching is done by Catholic priests, Jewish rabbis, Know nothing agnostics, orthodox Christians, heathens and atheists—by any one, in fact, who believes in the practical application of the golden rule.

Mayor Jones came to Chicago as the guest of George E. Hoeker, and spent the day at Hull House studying its methods of applying the golden rule.

Mayor Jones has been interested in the production of oil for thirty-two years, beginning in Pennsylvania and going to Ohio eleven years ago.

He invented some appliances for use in the business, and when the big concern sprang there he started a factory in Toledo about five years ago. It is run by the Acme Sucker Rod Company.

He had lived and worked in the country and was astounded to learn that men were working in the cities for less than a dollar a day. He said his men would be paid enough to live decently, and he determined that with the use of modern machinery men should not work more than eight hours a day.

Going into another factory, he noticed a string of rules a yard long, and each one of them had a threat of dismissal at its tail. He read to his wife: "I am going to have a rule, too." He dusted a commission to Europe, Mr. McKinley admitted the gold standard to be unsatisfactory.

By appropriating $10,000 to pay the expenses of the commission, the Republican Congress confessed itself desirous of getting rid of the gold standard.

The Republican party, having failed in its efforts to get rid of the gold standard, must now insist upon the American people endorsing a gold standard. Can the Republican party carry over to the gold standard all the voters who believed in international bimetalism last year? Scarcely not.

The opposition to the trusts is growing stronger every day, and the Republican party is impotent to exterminate them because it receives financial support from them. Therefore, it must expect to lose votes among those who believe the modern trust to be a menace to the industries as well as to the welfare of the United States.

GOOD THINGS. Cullied Especially for Hartford Herald Readers.

NOT A RICK, BUT—(New York Weekly.) Wise Mother (from head of stairs)—My dear, I wish you wouldn't sit up half the night reading novels.

Pretty Daughter (from the parlor)—Why, ma, I'm not reading. Mr. Little-willy is here.

Wise Mother—Oh, I beg his pardon. I thought you had gone. Mr. Little-willy, and I was afraid my daughter was leaving her eyes reading. It seems I was mistaken. Probably the noise I took to be the front door closing was only the hall clock striking 10.

AN EXPEDIENT AMENDMENT. Mrs. Especk—Another mysterious suicide—unknown man throws himself from a cliff.

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

She—I presume you have forgotten, you outrageous brute, that you once promised me I should be queen of the household.

He—Mebbe I did, but I didn't intend that you should be the boss, too, too.

Did your wife have access to your clothes the night the money disappeared? asked the man who had gone to the Judge for a warrant against the hired man.

Little Drusilla—Does your mamma take you in her lap evenings and tell you fairy stories—mine does.

Miss Elders—Poor Sister Barker was a great worker; she will be sadly missed out of your church.

The Ladies' Home Journal has secured what promises to be the greatest magazine feature of 1898. It is entitled "The Inner Experiences of a Cabinet Member's Wife."

A Terrible Suicide. (Wichita Kan.) special to Kansas City World. Mam Sook-A-Mam, a Comanche squaw, over 100 years old, believing that she had outlived her usefulness, wrapped all her dresses, awlays and bedding about her withered form, and, supporting herself on her hands and feet over a slow fire, and in the presence of children and grandchildren, burned herself in her tepee on the tribal reservation in the Indian Territory on Sunday. The children chanted a death song while the aged squaw was slowly consuming.

Delays Are Dangerous. Many of your friends, or people whom you know have contracted consumption, pneumonia or other fatal diseases by neglect of a simple cold or cough.

As She Died so Did He. CYNTHIANA, KY., Nov. 9.—Leon Taylor, a farmer aged thirty years, committed suicide by hanging himself at the home of his mother this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

Major Blundin—What was the fiercest charge you saw during the war, Majah? Major Blundin—It was the day before Lee surrendered, sub—I had just lifted a glass of whiskey—damn had whiskey—to my lips, sub—when the soldier said, sub—the charge for that whiskey is $2.50 Confederate money, or 25 cents Yank, sub; and pay for it before you drink it, sub!

ROYAL BAKING POWDER. Absolutely Pure. Advertisement for a baking powder.

afternoon they stopped and decided to prospect for gold, as the conditions seemed favorable. While driving stakes for a provision cache, Ward saw some small gold nuggets in the loose ground at his feet.

Ward took $800 in gold from the hole. He ascended the stream for 100 miles prospecting; also twenty tributary streams and gulches. In all of them he found gold and several of them were very rich.

Ward returned to the Yukon river, after securing twenty pounds of dust. In descending the new district Ward says: "It can be worked the year round. I came back to make arrangements to develop these mines on a large scale by a process which I have demonstrated as practical. I am going to take a score or more of my friends with me on my return next spring and the location will not be secret long after we locate. There is room for thousands there and I will gladly make public further details after my claims are located."

"We shall go to St. Mitchell on our own vessel and take along a small steamer to ascend the river. I found one place where the course of the river can be diverted. It will be found full of gold. Everything indicates it."

Ward brought with him samples of quartz of Koyukuk river and several pieces of conglomerate. The latter are very rich, being full of small particles of gold, while the quartz is mostly low grade. With rich placer finds in sight he does not think quartz mining will be extensively followed for several years. The river flows into the Yukon from the northeast about fifty miles above Arctic City. A trading post is on its upper waters.

How to Cure Bilious Colic. I suffered for weeks with colic and pain in my stomach caused by biliousness and had to take medicines all the while until I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured me. I have since recommended it to a good many people.—Mrs. E. Brennan, Fairhaven, Conn. Persons who are subject to bilious colic should get off the attack by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms appear. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., Hartford, Conn., and Sulphur Springs, J. X. Taylor, Cromwell, Conn.

Victory for Silver. (Chicago Dispatch.) One fact has been clearly demonstrated by the election, and that is the enlarged growth of the silver sentiment. However much the Republican editors may strive to ignore the conclusions, there remains no doubt that the dissatisfaction of the people with gold monometallism was at the bottom of Republican defeat.

Henry Watterson frankly admits the victory of bimetalism at the polls in Kentucky and withdraws from party leadership. In his voluntary editorial Watterson says: "The issue as it was made and has been fought out, was clear and explicit. No effort was waiting to maintain it. No ally could by any possibility be mistaken about it. We may regret the verdict against us, but we accept it. We shall make no further effort to direct the party course or control, or to share in any of the responsibilities of the party leadership."

So much for Kentucky and a gold Democrat's estimate of the results.

A New Klondike Discovered. TACOMA, WASH., Nov. 9.—A $11 discovery which equals that of the Klondike has been made on the Koyukuk river, Alaska, according to David Ward, miner and prospector, who returned from Alaska yesterday via Detroit's trail (Chilkot Pass) and Dyea. He kept his find a secret until yesterday just previous to his departure for Kansas, where he came to form a company to work the new Klondike.

Early in the morning Ward was working his yard and the heavy waters of the week. The quality of its contents is shown by the announcement for 1898, Koyukuk river with two Indians. One Scrofula. A Real Blood Remedy. Advertisement for a blood-purifying medicine.

This Man Was Poisoned. DR. BELL'S PEPPERMINT CHILL TONIC. Advertisement for a medicinal tonic.